

I strongly support low power FM radio in my community. This medium provides young people the opportunity to learn the technology of broadcasting and the communication skills necessary to provide broadcast content.

In my community, there is no local broadcast news. There is an NPR station that covers Rochester, NY, but they rarely if ever cover news for Webster, NY. Low power FM broadcasting would enable my community to communicate with its self.

Webster, NY is growing unchecked and there are a great many environmental issues that are dramatically important to the community that are not covered by any media except for the two community newspapers. These issues need to be covered through radio, especially low power FM radio.

I strongly appose Christian translator radio stations and feel that they abuse the airwaves.

Sincerely,

Max Lent
